LANSING ENTERS STRONG PROTEST

Warns France and Britain to End Mail Seizures.

CALLS PRACTICE LAWLESS

American Note Says Only a Radical Change in Policy Toward Neutral Nations Will Be Satisfactory—United States Expects Compliance Will Be Prompt.

Washington, May 27.—The United States, denouncing interference with neutral mails, has notified Great Britain and France that it can no longer tolerate the wrongs which American citizens have suffered and continue to suffer through the "lawless practice" those governments have indulged in, and that only a radical change in policy, restoring the United States to its full rights as a neutral power, will be satisfactory.

This notification is given in the latest American communication to the two governments, the text of which was made public by the state department.

The time in which the change must be effected is not specific, but the United States expects prompt action. "Onerous and vexatious" abuses, which have been perpetrated by the British and French governments in seizing and censoring neutral mails, are recited in the communication.

Answers are made to the legal arguments contained in the reply of the entente governments to the first American note on the subject.

It is vigorously set forth that not only have American commercial interests been injured, but that the rights of property have been violated and the rules of international law and custom palpably disregarded.

Notice is served that the United States soon will press claims against the British and French governments for the losses which already have been sustained.

FEW TROOPS ON HAND WHEN REVOLT CAME

Dublin, May 27.—On Easter Monday, the day on which the Irish rebellion began, the number of available British troops in Ireland was only 2,555.

This information was given by Major General Cowell, who testified before the royal commission which is investigating the uprising.

General Friend, commander of the British forces in Ireland at the time, admitted that the number of troops was small and said that until April 1 he had been responsible for this state of affairs, having taken the ground that he had enough men to meet any emergency.

It was testified that Baron Wimborne, the lord lieutenant, suggested on the night before the rebellion broke out that a raid be made on Liberty hall, headquarters of the Sinn Féin society, but it was decided reinforcements would be needed.

LINCOLN SAILS FOR ENGLAND

Confessed German Spy Will Be Placed on Trial.

New York, May 27.—Ignatius Timothy Trelich Lincoln, confessed German spy, sailed for England on the Anchor line steamship Cameronia. He was taken to the pier by Scotland Yard detectives after a wild ride in an automobile through Brooklyn streets, across the Manhattan bridge and through the Bowery.

The car in which he was a passenger was chased vainly by taxicabs carrying reporters. Every effort was made to keep secret the preparations for Lincoln's removal from the Raymond street jail.

GERMAN AGENT IS INDICTED

Von Rintelen to Be Brought From London to United States.

New York, May 27.—Franz von Rintelen, the German agent who has figured in several alleged German bomb plots and is now detained in England, was indicted by the federal grand jury as a basis for obtaining his extradition to this country. The indictment charges him with fraud in connection with the procuring of an American passport.

Former President of Yale University Dead.

New Haven, Conn., May 27.—Rev. Dr. Timothy Dwight, former president of Yale university, died at his home here.

PRESIDENT MAY TRY TO END CONFLICT

Washington, May 27.—President Wilson is giving more serious consideration to the possibility of restoring peace to Europe than at any time since the outbreak of the war. From an authoritative source it was learned that the president is preparing to do everything possible in an informal way to bring about the discussion of peace.

The president is convinced the war is deadlocked and that a continuance merely means the killing of more people and the further impoverishment of European nations, both belligerent and neutral.

Through various channels Mr. Wilson has kept in close touch with the development of peace prospects.

Mr. Wilson's closest advisers believe the rulers of warring nations, because of their close relationship, even kinship, will have as important a part in restoring peace as the ministers of their governments. It will occasion no surprise in official circles if in some manner the rulers of the countries at war open the way for peace conversations.

MILLION SET ASIDE TO AID WAR VICTIMS

New York, May 27.—The Rockefeller Foundation announced that it had appropriated $1,000,000 for war relief in Poland, Serbia, Montenegro and Albania.

The sum appropriated is to be expended at the discretion of the executive committee whenever satisfactory arrangements for the shipment of relief supplies can be effected.

HILL ILLNESS NOT SERIOUS

Railway Magnate Need Not Undergo an Operation.

St. Paul, May 27.—The condition of James J. Hill was pronounced not serious following a conference between Dr. James S. Gillilan of St. Paul and Dr. William J. Mayo of Rochester. The conference was preceded by a dash by Dr. Mayo to St. Paul in a special train.

An operation was deemed unnecessary at the present time. Dr. Mayo returned to Rochester after the conference. He declined to comment on the condition of Mr. Hill beyond saying there is no great danger. He referred all inquiries to Dr. Gillilan.

Intestinal trouble, followed by slight infection, is said to be the cause of illness of Mr. Hill. A large boil or carbuncle is described as being the most serious and painful part of the illness. Unless general infection starts attending physicians do not anticipate anything of an alarming nature.

FOREST FIRES IN DOMINION

Flames Rage in Woods of British Columbia.

Prince George, B. C., May 27.—Forest fires in several parts of British Columbia were reported.

One of the fires is raging in the mountains within a few miles of Prince George.

Another is reported spreading to Mount Robson park on the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad.

Important Papers Found on Dead Bandit General Gallieni Savior of Paris Dies

(By United Press) Headquarters American Army, May 27.—A proclamation was found on the body of Gen. Cervantes, the dead Villa bandit, which called upon the members of Gen. Carranza's army to rise against the American invaders. The tone was the most bitter, and the killing of the bandit is justified. The United States has thus disposed of one of the most dangerous Villa bandit leaders.

Will not Discuss Troop Withdrawal

(By United Press) Washington, May 27.—Gen. Funston has instructed Gen. Pershing not to discuss the withdrawal of troops at the coming conference with Gen. Carranza and Gen. Garvira at Nampulpa.

(By United Press) Waukegan, May 27.—Judge Donnelly has ruled that Wm. Orpet's mother must quit "mothering" him in the court room, and that he must sit in the prisoner's dock. The state contended that the affection shown him in open court created sympathy for the accused man.

Steel Magnate Pleads for Greater Merchant Marine.

"When the war ends our export business will be in worse condition than ever, unless we pass laws that will place our merchant marine on an equality with that of other nations." Peace Proposal in a Few Months

(By United Press) Copenhagen, May 27.—Ambassador Gerard believes peace proposals will assume definite form within a few months, correspondents reporting he has said as much.

Expect Early Reply

(By United Press) Washington, May 27.—The administration confidently expects an early and favorable response to the protest against the mail seizures against England and France. Discussions with Ambassador Spring-Rice indicate that England intends to comply with this being evident from the fact that the United States did not stipulate the exact changes, but merely demands a radical change.

GERMANS STILL ON AGGRESSIVE

Heavy Fighting Continues in Verdun Region.

Lines Remain Unchanged

French War Office Reports Teutonic Attempts to Capture Approaches to Fort Douaumont Were Frustrated. Comparative Quiet Prevails on the Other Fronts.

London, May 27.—Heavy fighting in the region of Verdun continues, with the Germans still the aggressors, but according to the latest French official communication no new changes in positions have taken place.

Following up their recapture of Fort Douaumont, northeast of Verdun, the Germans have striven, but ineffectually, to drive out the French from the approaches to the fort, where they drew lines when forced to vacate the fort itself.

The attack was a strong one, but Paris reports that under the fire of the French infantry and rapid-firers it was completely repulsed, the Germans suffering heavy casualties.

This was the only infantry attack in all the Verdun region, says Paris, but the artillery of both sides has been extremely active on all sectors and especially in the region of Avocourt and hill 304.

The British and Germans have confined their recent fighting mainly to bombardments and sapping operations.

Comparative calm prevails along the Russian front.

POINTS TO MILITARY ACTIVITY IN BALKANS

Athens, May 27.—Exceptional military activity at Saloniki is believed here to portend developments of great importance.

General Howell, chief of the British staff, and other officers of the allies who have been on leave in Athens have been recalled suddenly.

On May 13 Bulgaria was reported to be sending heavy reinforcements to the Saloniki front in anticipation of a general offensive by the allies.

Since that time dispatches from various sources have reported activity on the part of the French and British forces, the most notable being the occupation of Florina, eighteen miles south of Monastir, by allied troops on May 23.

Significance also was attached to the efforts of the entente to obtain the use of the Greek railroad for the transportation of the reorganized Serbian army to the Saloniki front.

Paris and London have been persistently silent as to any developments in the Balkans.

WILSON AND HOUSE CONFER

Special Envoy May Make Another Trip to Berlin.

Washington, May 27.—The definite statement in Berlin press dispatches that Germany would welcome peace was read with deep interest by officials here, particularly in view of recent indications that President Wilson is paying close attention to the entire subject.

The only comment made was that the president's speech before the League to Enforce Peace would make plain Mr. Wilson's position.

Officials said they knew of no intention on the president's part of asking Colonel House to go back to Berlin.

The president and Colonel House had an hour's conversation in New York Wednesday, but the details of their conversation were not revealed.

BRYAN NOT A CANDIDATE

Will Not Run for President on Prohibition Ticket.

Atlanta, Ga., May 27.—Wilson will be the nominee of the Democratic party, some candidate other than Roosevelt will represent the Republicans and W. J. Bryan will be a worker in the ranks. Mr. Bryan said so here.

Mr. Bryan was emphatic in repudiating the suggestion that he would run as the Prohibition party candidate.

RURAL SCHOOL PICNIC

Ossipee and Mission Schools Celebrate
Last Day of School Term on Friday Afternoon

Miss Ruth Anderson, teaching the Ossipee school the past four years, and her pupils celebrated the last day of the term by joining with the Mission school conducted by Miss Mary Taylor and giving a big picnic at Mission lake Friday afternoon.

It was one of the most successful school picnics in the history of the district. There was ice cream and cake and sandwiches galore. A fine program was given.

Visitors present included County Superintendent Mrs. Irma Camp Hartley, C. E. Hansing, A. B. Hostetter of Duluth, and E. A. Colquhoun of Aitkin.

She Didn't Want to Squeeze (Walker Pilot)

A Pillager feller and his best girl went to Brainerd to see "The Birth of a Nation." All the passenger coaches on the N. P. were crowded with Pillager folks, but finally the feller spied a little space in the aisle and he said to his best girl: "Come on, I think we can squeeze in here all right." "All right," replied the best girl, "but don't you think we better wait until we get home, dear?"

CURIOUS WAY TO FISH.

Samoans Use a Coconut Leaf Chain
Half a Mile Long.

A Samoan fishing boat is a unique sight to witness. Coconut leaves are gathered in abundance and secured, doubled and tripled, end to end, to form a long prickly chain, round in appearance and about three feet in diameter. These leaf chains are often woven to a length of half a mile. When the chain is complete all the men of that particular village turn out en masse with their "paopao," or Samoan canoes.

When the tide is high the chain is stretched across some convenient place, supported by natives in their paopao or simply wading where the shallowness will permit. The coconut seine is then submerged and slowly forced shoreward, the prickly points driving the fish before them. When the point is reached where the chain can rest upon the bottom and still protrude slightly from the water the natives after securing the ends to the beach retire and wait for the tide to recede, leaving the fish high and dry.

It is often found that large fish are driven and caught in this manner, but since they are capable of jumping the barrier they are dispatched with spears at once. The catches of fish thus made are sometimes enormous and often number thousands. — Los Angeles Times.

STORY OF A DREAM

Curious Slumber Vision and Its Sequence in Real Life.

A WARNING OR A COINCIDENCE

Whichever of the Theories May Be Selected as the Answer to the Problem, It Was a Singular and Puzzling Psychological Experience.

The following real life experience, which is interesting both as a story and for the psychological problems it involves, is related to the Pathfinder by one of its women readers:

"In a dream one night it seemed that I awoke and found myself lying on a mattress placed on the floor of a room entirely devoid of furniture. In my dream I felt considerable surprise at finding myself in such a situation, and I looked about in dismay and alarm. Upon trying to move I found to my horror that I was weak and sick, and I fell back on the pillow exhausted and much depressed.

"Just then the door of the room opened and a man entered. He was extraordinarily tall and was very dark and thin. Instinctively I felt that he was my doctor. I asked him where I was and what was wrong. Slowly and solemnly he answered:

"You have smallpox."

"At this juncture I awoke, greatly horrified and agitated. All day my dream stood out with frightful vividness in my mind. At length in the hope of relieving myself of some of its unpleasantness I related it to several of my friends. Without exception they earnestly advised me to be vaccinated at once, and I did so.

"A few days later I was in New York city. As I walked along I noted many fruit vendors with quantities of fine looking white grapes piled up on their carts. The fruit was so tempting that I stopped before one of the carts and asked the young fellow in charge of it to weigh out two pounds for me. As he was waiting on me I saw him cast a furtive glance behind him, then despite my request that he give me my grapes at once, he seized the handle of his cart and with most of his fellow merchants trundled rapidly away.

"I looked in the opposite direction and saw a man, evidently a city official, who was ordering the few remaining fruit vendors to 'move on.' He was coming in my direction, and as I was somewhat incensed at the summary departure of the vendor before he could sell me the grapes I wanted, I decided to wait and give the cause of the trouble a piece of my mind."

"On looking up to address him I was startled to find myself face to face with the living counterpart of the physician who in my dream had informed me that I had the smallpox. Recovering my self possession as best I could, I said, 'Will you kindly tell me why these fruit men are so persecuted? In steady of idling their time away in saloons or on park benches they try to earn an honest living by selling fruit. I think this is entirely commendable. Why are they not allowed to conduct their business in peace?'"

"All this sounds very well," replied the man, but there is another side to this question. These people are poor and as a matter of economy live very closely, several families sometimes occupying a single room. Not long ago one of their women suffering with a contagious disease. Under the bed was a stock of fruit which one of the men took out on the street the following day to sell. At present we are obliged to watch these people very carefully in order to prevent a general spread of this terrible disease, but—and he looked squarely at me—"if you do not mind having smallpox I see no reason why you should be prevented from patronizing the fruit vendors all you please."

"For several minutes we stood there, and neither of us said a word. Then the dark man walked off in one direction and I in the other. When I had gone a short distance something prompted me to look around. I did so and was startled to see the man of my dreams looking thoughtfully at me. Instantly it flashed over me, 'He has had a dream of me and recognizes me as I did him.'"

"Whether or not such was the case I have never learned, but I do know that so far I have escaped smallpox. Was my dream a warning, I wonder, or was it merely a dream, and was my meeting the tall, dark, thin man nothing more than a coincidence?"

GOOD HIGHWAYS AND FARMERS

Lower Cost and Reduce Trouble of Transportation.

VALUE OF IMPROVED ROADS

Farmers Are Great Gainers From the Betterment of Highways Which Greatly Reduce the Cost of Transportation—Rural Prosperity Largely Depends Upon Good Roads.

Before the war in Europe affected the rates at sea it cost the American farmer more to haul a bushel of wheat, nine and a half miles to the railroad station for shipment than it cost the buyer to ship the same bushel of wheat from New York to Liverpool, a distance of 3,000 miles, according to a bulletin issued by the American Highway association. The average cost of hauling a ton of farm produce or a ton of anything else over the average country road is about 23 cents a mile; seventy years ago the cost of the same service was 17 cents. The cost of hauling over the railroads is less now than one-ninth as much as it was sixty years ago. The cost of hauling by railroad has almost reached the vanishing point; the cost of hauling on the country roads has gone up as the roads have gone down.

By careful calculation Logan Waller Page, director of the United States office of public roads, has reached the conclusion that with wise and equitable road laws and good business management it would be entirely practicable for the people to save themselves

THE RURAL PROBLEM OF TRANSPORTATION on the two items of hauling and administration the enormous sum of $250,000,000 yearly. The railroads in the United States carry about 900,000,000 tons of freight annually, and of this vast tonnage at least 200,000,000 tons are hauled over the country roads to the railroad station or to the canals for shipment. The immense volume of mining products aggregating millions of tons is not included in this estimate, but only the agricultural, forest and miscellaneous products hauled by wagon over the public roads, nor is the cost of hauling back and forth between the farms and the mills. It is an underestimate rather than an overestimate to place the cost of hauling over the country roads at not less than $500,000,000 yearly, and no other business but the business of farming could stand such a strain without bankruptcy.

"The main cause of agricultural distress," says the bulletin, "a subject of perennial alarm to popular favorites, is not so much the wages of the workers or the infertility of the soil or the prices of the products, but the enormous

The Church versus Nonchurchgoer

Second session of this trial case at St. Paul's Episcopal Church on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock

The church will put up its defense against the charges made by the non-church goer. The defense will be made on the following lines. Misunderstanding of the churches mission. The economic conditions of today are adverse to religion. The present age is materialistic and pagan. The relationship between the present rebirth of social consciousness and religion will be discussed. The subject is of vital interest and importance. A hearty invitation to all.

mous drain of getting the stuff to market, the waste of the roads in the wear and tear of machinery, the sacrifice of tonnage, the inefficiency of service compelled by impassable highways. Tributary to every market town or railroad station there are what Mr. Page calls 'zones of production.' From the first of these zones all products can be delivered to market at a profit, and from the rest one class of products after another must be eliminated because of the prohibitive cost of hauling, and beyond the vast territories that cannot be cultivated without the building and constant maintenance of roads suited to whatever traffic there may be developed."

It has been demonstrated that as the roads from the market towns have been improved there has been a great increase of their business and a corresponding improvement in the condition and opportunities of the rural population, larger prosperity of the individual farmer, greater traffic for the railroads, better supplies and lower prices for the consumer. It does not pay to raise crops that cannot be marketed readily and cheaply. Millions of dollars' worth of field and orchard crops have been utterly wasted because of expensive and inadequate facilities for marketing. This is one of the hard problems with which the United States department of agriculture is trying to deal through the greatest experts in the land, and they have found that the building of good roads is essential to the success of their plans.

BUCKMAN NEXT CONGRESSMAN

The Bemidji Herald says that as the day of the primaries draws near, it looks more and more as if Hon. C. B. Buckman will be next congressman from the Sixth congressional district. He has previously represented this district for two terms in congress and is probably better qualified than any of his present opponents. The Sixth Minnesota district needs a man in congress who can secure favorable legislation and appropriations that will help the struggling settler in developing this region, and it seems to be the consensus of opinion in Bemidji that Mr. Buckman is the man to get the results that are needed.

Naval Militia Armory

The Crosby Courier says: A. O. Rabideau has received the $23,000 armory plans and they are on display at his office. They will probably be changed but slightly if any. The main building will be 133 x 86 in size. A strip across the front 36 x 86 will be two stories high.

A drill hall 60 x 90 and a stage 34 x 18 will be in the rear. Under the stage will be a room 61 x 18 for boat storage purposes.

The first floor of the front provides a locker room, 23 x 25 for men, an office 13 x 14 for the village clerk, a club room 16 x 17 for men and a ladies retiring room 13 x 16.

On the second floor there will be a council chamber 23 x 44, a kitchen 13 x 18, officers' quarters 17 x 21, an office 11 x 12 and a balcony over the drill room 18 x 60.

In the basement there will be a work room, store room, boiler room and fuel room, shower bath and toilet, and a rifle range 12 x 90.

The armory will be built on a strip of land 100 x 145 donated by Geo. H. Crosby. It faces Second street south at the corner of First avenue west and Second street south and runs back towards the lake to the driveway. The front of the building will be 30 feet high. The exterior of the building will be of tapestry brick and the interior of the drill hall will be white sandstone brick. It will be finished this year.

Not Fitting.

"Cutting and fitting go together to dressmaking, but not necessarily in speechmaking."

"What's wrong at your club, my dear?"

"We asked Mrs. Flubdub to make some fitting remarks, and she made some cutting remarks."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

LAYING PLANS FOR STAMPEDE

Roosevelt Men Working for His Nomination.

TELEGRAMS ARE POURING IN

Senators and Representatives in Washington Who Will Go to Chicago as Delegates to the Republican National Convention Are Being Urged to Support Colonel.

Washington, May 27.—Evidence continues to accumulate in Washington that missionaries for the Roosevelt presidential candidacy are active and putting up a campaign that indicates that strenuous efforts will be made to stampede the Chicago convention for the former president.

Word was received in Washington from a delegate at large who is instructed for another candidate, but who is at heart for Roosevelt, that a series of meetings will be held in the Middle West next week to accelerate the Roosevelt movement.

Senators and representatives in congress who will go to Chicago as delegates are being deluged with telegrams urging them to support Mr. Roosevelt.

Hundreds of these telegrams come from Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois and other states in the Middle West and Northwest.

Inquiry has developed that these messages are the result of a vigorous campaign that has been inaugurated by the recently formed Roosevelt committee.

SECRETARY LANSING WILL NOT RESIGN

Washington, May 27.—Secretary Lansing attended the cabinet meeting after being confined to his home for nearly a week by an attack of indigestion.

The state department made this statement regarding published reports that Secretary Lansing was contemplating resigning from the cabinet because of differences with President Wilson.

"This story is part of a propaganda, the deliberate purpose of which is to create an appearance of dissension in the government, which does not exist. The story was first born last February or March when the relations between the United States and Germany were somewhat strained. It was sent to Berlin by wireless in press dispatches.

"It was picked up in transit in an allied country and subsequently published there. In that way the state department became cognizant of the story and instructions were sent to Berlin to watch out for it. Apparently the persons responsible found out we were prepared for the story because it never was published in Germany. The directors of this propaganda have now taken advantage of Secretary Lansing's illness to put out the story again."

Mr. Lansing personally denied that he was considering resigning as he left the White House.

IOWAN TO NAME CUMMINS CHOSEN.

Des Moines, May 27.—Nate E. Kendall of Albion, former representative from the Sixth district, has been chosen to make the speech at the Chicago convention nominating Senator A. B. Cummins for the presidency.

MEAT PRICES ARE HIGHER

Increase in Live Animals of 1.7 Per Cent in Month.

Washington, May 27.—Prices paid producers for meat animals continue to increase. From April 15 to May 15 the increase was 1.7 per cent, compared with an average decrease of 1.7 cent during the same period in the last six years.

Compared with last year the May 15 prices were 17.4 per cent higher and with the six-year average 18.3 per cent higher.

Hogs averaged $8.37 a hundred pounds, $1.50 more than last year; beef cattle $6.73, an increase of 60 cents; sheep $6.66, an increase of $1.08.

Bridge Workers Strike.

Pittsburg, May 27.—One thousand bridge men employed in open shops in Pittsburg and vicinity are on strike. The men ask for an increase in wages. Leaders assert that within a week the strike will extend to every open shop in the United States.

Frisco Policemen Slain.

San Francisco, May 27.—Armed with riot guns a squad of police surrounded a house in the Mission district where a man sought as a counterfeiter had barricaded himself after he had shot and killed Police Sergeant John J. Moriarty.

200,000 WILL MARCH IN DEFENSE PARADE

Chicago, May 27.—The preparedness parade has grown to such proportions that it has been found necessary to divide the number into a day and a night parade.

The enrollment already has reached 140,000, and at the rate the applications are arriving it is expected the 200,000 mark will be reached.

Floodlights of all colors and batteries of searchlights will be used in illuminating the grand canyon of the business district through which the paraders will march at night.

BRANDEIS VOTE UP NEXT WEEK.

Washington, May 27.—An arrangement was reached among senators under which the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis to the supreme court will be finally disposed of next week practically without discussion in the senate. The specific date will be fixed later.

Those opposing Mr. Brandeis admitted the nomination is virtually certain of confirmation.

MORGAN OFFICE BOY QUILTS

Then Financier's Payroll of $10,515 Is Missed.

New York, May 27.—J. P. Morgan & Co. requested the police to search for William McManus, an eighteen-year-old office boy, on complaint that he disappeared, taking with him $10,515, representing the firm's weekly payroll.

McManus had been in the employ of the firm two years.

BELIEVE HUGHES WOULD ACCEPT

No Positive Statement to Contrary Has Been Issued.

HIS POLICIES ARE OUTLINED

Justice Quoted as Saying That He Believes in Large Army and Navy. Little Danger of Stampede at Chicago Convention, as Such Methods Seldom Prove Successful.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, May 27.—[Special.]—There have been expressions concerning the presidential nomination by the Republican party, and most of them contain the phrase "If Hughes will accept." I am convinced that Mr. Justice Hughes will accept the Republican nomination if it is tendered him, and it makes no difference whether it comes on the first, second, third or a later ballot.

I am also convinced that the justice has lately given some expression of his views regarding the questions before the nation which are intended to meet criticisms coming from certain Progressives to the effect that the position of the justice is not known, particularly upon the great questions of preparedness or national defense. Not long ago Justice Hughes told a personal friend that he believed it was necessary for the United States to put itself in such a state of preparation that would insure respect of foreign countries and avoid possible attacks on account of the nation's weakness.

Will Be No Stampede.

It is practically impossible to stampede the convention for any candidate. In 1904 I saw a great effort to stampede the Democratic national convention for some one other than Judge Parker, but the Parker delegates sat through the entire demonstration, and when the time came they nominated him. I saw a still greater attempt to stampede a convention. It was in 1908 when the allies who were opposed to Taft, and all the Roosevelt shouters, who were numbered by the thousands, made an effort to stampede the convention for Roosevelt, who was then at the zenith of his popularity. And that stampede did not take place. It will take a mighty whirlwind of sentiment to stampede a convention in these days.

Taft and the Nomination.

Some way former President Taft has more or less trouble in regard to politics. Only recently it was stated that during a visit to Washington he had called on Justice Hughes and promised him the nomination. Fortunately Taft was able to deny it, for he never saw Hughes, nor would he undertake to promise nominations. One of Taft's friends explained his position. He feels under obligations to a number of men who have been mentioned for president, all of whom had stood by him in 1904, and for that reason he could not become partisan and support any one of them.

Campbell Wonders.

It is the duty of Congressman Phil Campbell of Kansas, the ranking Republican member of the committee on rules, to oppose the various Democratic rules which are brought in for the purpose of advancing legislation. Upon a recent occasion he said: "I have wondered sometimes if the shades of Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson have looked down upon this Democratic majority. If so those old patron saints of Democracy must wonder where the child of their youth is wandering."

Campbell had particular reference to the bills which Democrats have put through of a paternalistic character and the federal domination which has been advancing in great strides through legislation enacted in the last few years.

Reed Makes a Comparison.

The other day Senator Newlands criticized the political activity of W. J. Harris, who is a member of the federal trade commission. Hardwick of Georgia defended his friend and constituent, and while he was talking Senator Reed of Missouri interrupted to ask:

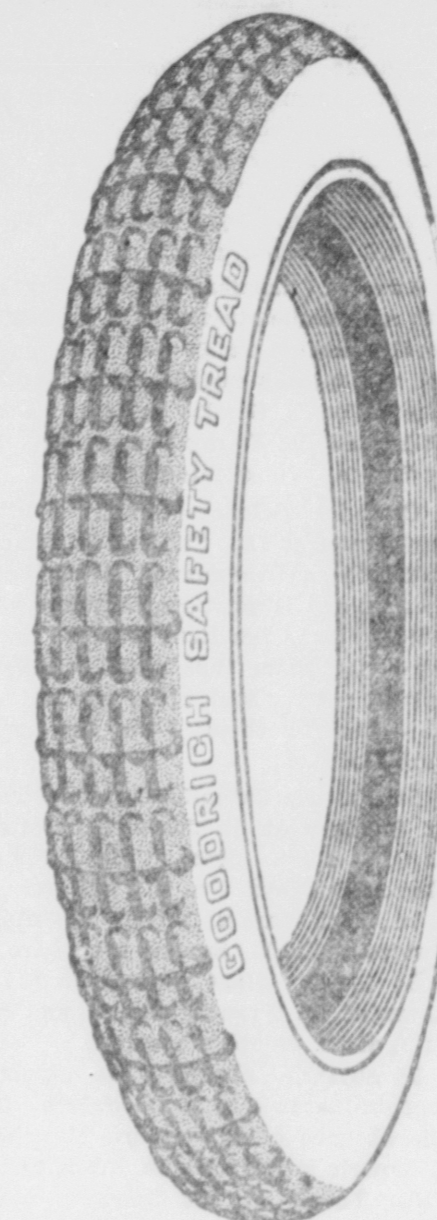

"Do you think there is any greater crime against propriety for a member of the federal trade commission to be a delegate to a state convention than it is for a justice of the supreme court to be a candidate for president of the United States?"

Of course everybody knew what Reed meant. Still, no justice has yet become a candidate for the presidency.

Raised an Interesting Question.

Senator Harding of Ohio in discussing the river and harbor appropriation bill expressed the opinion that the day of river transportation had passed. He was of the opinion that, while many of the streams could be utilized for transportation in a small way, all the great freight of the country would hereafter be moved by railroads. There are many people in the country who still believe that the rivers can be made a most efficient means of transportation if they are utilized to their full extent. The Ohio senator did not convince his colleagues, for they went ahead with the river and harbor bill just the same.

IT'S SEVEN YEARS OLD

But Mr. Ellison Says It's Just as Good Today as When It Was First Made

Seven years ago Mr. Ellison testified to complete relief from kidney ills.

He now says that there has not been the slightest return of the trouble.

Brainerd sufferers will take a deal of comfort in Mr. Ellison's statement. Read what he says:

Charles Ellison, 512 S. Quince St., Brainerd, says: "My kidneys were disordered for several years and seemed to be gradually getting worse. I was taken with such awful pains in my back that I had to go to bed. Medicine patched me up somewhat and I got out in a few weeks, but I continued to suffer severely. I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills at H. P. Dunn's Drug Store and a few boxes put me in good shape." (Statement given September 1st, 1908.)

OVER FIVE YEARS LATER, Mr. Ellison said: "I can still recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. The benefit I got has lasted."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Ellison has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

EMOTIONAL ACTRESSES.

Temperament on the Stage and the Task of Managing It.

You hear a lot about the artistic temperament in and out of the theatrical trenches. There's only one way to manage a temperamental woman on the stage, said a well known leading man the other day, and that is to be in love with her. I was never so fortunate myself, but I have seen it work out with others again and again. They hate the man who won't admire them, and they laugh at the man who does. Their nerves are always thumping their into action till their hearts are bursting and their brains are in a whirl.

One of our emotional actresses in her prime was the most febrile, fearless, radiant witch of a woman the stage ever had. She was always on fire, intellectually and every other way. During one engagement in New York she wasn't on speaking terms with any one in the front of the house, except one man, and he was always telling her how wonderful she was. No one else dared go near her for fear she'd kill them with the first thing handy. They're just like angry leopards, some of them. They must be humored, conquered with patience, firmness and kindness.

A well known English star, who has always been famous for being difficult to manage, used to hate the sight of a manager. She could neither any man who was not her mental equal till he literally crumbled to pieces, and she loved nothing better. There were so many who were not her equal too. She knew most men were afraid of her, and she kept them in that delicious state of dread. They called it "temperament." She called it something more fitting—brains.—Theater Magazine.

WEATHER MAN HE'S A FAN

Promises Decent Weather for Sunday
so Brainerd and Ironton Can Play at Koering Grounds

NOELS ON SLAB FOR LOCALS

Ironton Team and Fans to Come in a Flotilla of Automobiles
Choking up the Park

Fair Weather Sunday
St. Paul weather man's prediction is: "Generally fair this evening and no decided change of temperature Sunday."

This Sunday, according to all weather predictions, government, private, official and non-official, it will be a fair day and we shall play ball.

Brainerd will face the scrappy Ironton nine, who never consider a game lost until the last man is out. Ironton also has the creditable record of bringing more fans to a game than any other nine that ever played in Brainerd. Little Falls always promises big crowds in "The Little Falls Transcript," but they never materialize. Whereas Brainerd visits Little Falls in a five coach special, Little Falls comes to Brainerd in half a dozen autos and they leave as soon as the game is over.

Ironton brings 50 to 100 fans to the game. Every man, woman and child in Ironton is first, last and all the time an Ironton booster. "Ironton, Where the Mines Are," is a slogan that is sometimes superseded by "Ironton Where Baseball Rules."

Managers of the teams are bank cashiers, umpires are mine superintendents, players are mining engineers, university men, business and professional men, miners, etc. Take them all in all, they are the best set of fans and players to be found anywhere.

Their lineup has been kept secret. On the slab will be Victor, former pitcher of Brainerd, and he has a hunch he will win from "Cook's Colts." Noel, Western League pitcher now living in Merrillfield, will pitch for Brainerd. He was at practice with the locals and seems to have the goods.

Brainerd may spring this lineup: Erickson cf, Bratton rf, Templeton 2b, Cook 1b, Benda ss, Frank c, Bush lf, Stallman 3b, Noel p.

The Olympia Candy Kitchen gives a $5 box of candy for the nearest guess on the attendance. Lammon's pharmacy will give a dozen sodas. Guesses may be registered at the Olympia or Lammon's, or at the grounds before the game starts.

The official score card has been a tremendous success. It is the best arranged and printed advertising booklet featured in Brainerd for a long time and has given the best of satisfaction. Copy was the best arranged ever submitted to the Dispatch office. Every advertiser gains circulation at the games and the towns to be played in and visitors keep the card as a souvenir. It gives sketches of the officers of the team, players and Brainerd native sons famous in baseball.

Almost daily inquiries are received from outside clubs as to copies of the score card and the method of compilation.

NINETEEN PAY FOR SPRINKLING

Those Not Paying in Advance of Sprinkling Lose a Discount and Must Pay $1 for Turning on Water

HAS BEEN A RAINY SPRING

When Dry Season Starts the Water and Light Board will be Busy
Enforcing the Rule

Nineteen out of a possible 200 have paid for sprinkling permits as follows:

1. A. A. Weidemann, No. 214 N. 9th St., $4.00, paid April 29.
2. W. F. Marx, No. 115 Main St., $4.00, paid May 3.
3. Aug. Hallquist, No. 819 S. 6th St., $4.00, paid May 3.
4. P. W. Donovan, No. 20 Bluff, $4.00, paid May 5.
5. Wm. Graham, No. 703 N. 6th, $4.00, paid May 6.
6. C. B. Rowley, No. 723 S. 5th, $2.40, paid May 6.
7. Mrs. A. E. Losey, No. 312 N. 4th, $4.80, paid May 6.
8. Carl Zapffe, No. 514 N. 3rd, $4.00, paid May 6.
9. J. L. Hoffbauer, No. 722 S. 8th, $4.00, paid May 6.
10. F. S. Parker, No. 412 N. 4th, $4.80, paid May 8.
11. Wm. Pfeiffer, No. 420 N. 10th, $4.80, paid May 10.
12. Mrs. M. Stillings, No. 303 N. 5th, $4.00, paid May 10.
13. H. J. Carlson, No. 616 N. 4th, $4.00, paid May 10.
14. H. L. Jones, No. 417 N. 4th, $4.00, paid May 15.
15. Chas. Renslow, No. 621 Kingwood, $4.00, paid May 15.
16. E. Westerberg, No. 1622 Norwood, $4.00, paid May 16.
17. M. R. Jacobson, No. 313 N. E. 1st Ave., $2.40, paid May 19.
18. Ed Day, No. 312 N. 5th, $4.80, paid May 24.
19. C. E. Parker, No. 624 N. 4th, $4.80, paid May 26.

This schedule for sprinkling is in force and if paid before water is used, the net rate holds good, a discount of 20 per cent being allowed: 25 ft. frontage, rate $3, net $2.40. 37½ ft. frontage, rate $4, net $3.20. 50 ft. frontage, rate $5, net $4.

Over 50 ft. frontage, rate $5, net $4.80.

Employees of the water and light board will make the rounds of the city and turn off water wherever sprinkling is being done by one who has secured no permit. With the water off, a charge of $1 is made to turn it on and a household will also suffer the inconvenience of waiting until his place can be served.

At the present time there has been considerable rainfall, but when the dry patches appear in the lawns is when city water will be in demand and when note will be made of users of the liquid.

For instance, a 50 foot frontage man paying for sprinkling in advance of its use, pays $4 for the season. If he sprinkles before paying, water can be shut off from his premises. He then pays $1 for turning it on, the full sprinkling charge of $5, is out $2, and also the inconvenience in waiting until the employees can appear to turn on the liquid.

DEVELOPMENTS OF WEEK ON RANGE

Manganese and Manganiferous Ores Constantly Rising in Price

CUYUNA CENTRAL MINING CO.

Adding New Drill Near Manganese—
Tabert Shaft Down Seventy Feet

The constantly rising scale of prices for manganese and manganiferous ores is calling renewed attention to the Cuyuna iron range and its manganiferous ores are in demand and are causing feverish activity in drilling.

The Cuyuna Central Mining Co., of Duluth owns the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 27, township 47, range 29 east of Manganese. It has shown up a large body of ore in the north half of the northeast quarter, being manganiferous and of the best quality. New drills are to be placed on the property May 29, the Zenith Exploration Co. doing the work. On this last named property a bed of mineral 2,000 feet long and 600 feet wide, it is reported, was discovered. There are 27 drill holes on one forty and 15 on the other.

In the same manganiferous belt with the Cuyuna Central property lie the Hunter property where much drilling has been done, the Flynn property soon to be operated, the Iron Mountain mine, now engaged in shipping manganiferous ore, the Ferro mine, etc.

The Hoch Mining Co., now in charge of the Iron Mountain, are putting in a concrete footing for their new electric compressor and a 2,000 gallon electric pump is to be installed. This mine and the Ferro mine are managed by Supt. A. A. MacKay.

John Nelson, of Manganese, is running a drill for Charles W. Potts of Deerwood in section 27, a quarter of a mile east of Manganese. The Tabert shaft of the south range a few miles east of Brainerd is down 70 feet and nearing ledge. An extra Cameron No. 9 pump has just been installed. Wm. T. White, interested in the south range and the Brainerd Mining Co., has returned from Milwaukee, Wis., and will give his personal attention to range affairs in which he is connected. The company has a drill working on their property, the Barrows mine, formerly operated by M. A. Hanna & Co., of Cleveland, Ohio, and situated at the north end of Barrows village.

The Cuyuna-Minneapolis Iron Co. has a drill in the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 27, township 47, range 29.

BRAINERD'S ODEST STORIES TODAY

The truth will out and the following is some that "outed." It's a fishing story. A distinguished piscatorial expert of Brainerd bought a trout, bought mind you, from an old fisherman of Northeast Brainerd and paid him two dollars for the fish. With the fish should have gone a pledge of silence on the part of the seller, but it was not made a part of the bargain at the time. The old man in Northeast Brainerd was considerably wrought up to think that a bought fish made more noise than a caught fish.

Everybody has troubles. The difference with people is whether or not they dwell on them. The Cyclone club, blasé as it generally is, nearly blew up with excitement this week, but is saying precious little.

There are prospects for a damage suit on the range and all on account of gossip about the "Merry Widow." She has been replaced by a stub train which runs between Ironton and Deerwood and meets freights and passengers. The "Deerwood Times" in a future of figurative language, called attention to the new service by remarking that "The Merry Widow" had a new daughter, the new stub train. The Ironton News responded and said "The Merry Widow" was not that kind of a lady.

"There are times, forsooth," says the Barrows News, "when the wisest thing we can say is to say nothing. And that, generally, is when we talk the loudest." But that wouldn't fill a paper.

By many the editorial effusion in the Journal-Press is regarded as a "Base Ball" against local Base Ball.

BASEBALL SITUATION

Statement Made by Joseph Zimmer and Fred Cook Replying to Attack on Baseball

Joseph Zimmer, business manager, and Fred Cook, secretary of the Brainerd baseball team, have made the following statement for publication in the Dispatch:

It seems almost impossible, in this progressive age, that a man that is constantly before the public, as an editor, could have the nerve to print such an article as appeared in the Journal-Press of this week and try to make the public believe it.

In the first place he knows not of what he is speaking and in the second it is unbusinesslike. He must not think that we were chased out of the woods at night by the owls. Far be it from such. We have an eye for business and had it when we started this baseball project. As any one else would do when they had a contract to let they would encourage bids on same and the party who bid the lowest naturally received the contract.

We had quite a bit of printing to do in connection with the baseball business and the Journal-Press was included in the list of bidders. The Dispatch gave us the better proposition, and because of the daily co-operation, that press received our work. In fairness to all however we gave the Journal-Press small items at times, but the soreness seems to have increased because we haven't given them anything of late. Consequently, having no other way to "get even" they used their only weapon, their own columns to try and embitter the public against us and thereby gain their point: namely, to disrupt baseball in Brainerd. If their bids were as small as their principle they certainly would have received all of our work.

Now gentle reader, read the following verified statements and denials of that article under the heading of "Baseball and its management" which appears in the Journal-Press and judge for yourself. We do not intend to allow the ravings of a vindictive, sore-headed editor spoil our only chance for good baseball during the present season.

In the first place, the fans in general know the true version of affairs as they exist in a baseball way in Brainerd, but to inform those who are in doubt, we wish to explain the true state of affairs:

To begin with, Mr. O. H. Johnson and Mr. A. P. Drogseth are acting in the same capacity as they did last year, namely, as president and treasurer of the Brainerd Baseball Club. These officers have the same authority as they had last year. Mr. Johnson, as president retains the right to call a meeting of the officers at any time he deems it necessary. Mr. Drogseth is full acting treasurer, and has full jurisdiction over the funds of the club. The checks are all signed by Mr. Drogseth and no check can be drawn on the Baseball Club without his signature. This fact alone brands the statement made that the above officers have nothing to do with the disbursements and were used as a blind, as absolutely false.

When the so-called promoters decided upon this plan to finance the ball team, they immediately called upon the president and acting secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Henry I. Cohen and Mr. A. L. Hoffman and also upon Mr. R. B. Withington, chairman of the advertising committee to get their endorsement of the project. The gentlemen referred to, heartily endorsed the plan, after being fully informed in regards to the details. Messrs. Cohen and Hoffman also stated that the Chamber of Commerce would not take an active interest in baseball this year, and as far as they knew, could be depended upon to assist in a financial way. The statement made by the Journal-Press that the Chamber of Commerce refused to endorse the plan was also false. It is true, however, that the Chamber refused to take an advertisement in the Score Card, because the project was an individual one. Mr. Zimmer and Mr. Cook distinctly stated to all parties from whom they solicited advertisements, that they were personally responsible for all debts contracted by the club during the season. Mr. Cook, at a meeting of the Advisory Board of the Chamber of Commerce stated that it was an individual proposition, so the statement made that Mr. Cook and Mr. Zimmer were running it on an indi-

PERILS OF AN EXPLORER.

Story of a Smoke Dried Indian Head in the National Museum.

In the United States National museum is a smoke dried head of a Brazilian Indian secured on the headwaters of the Tapajós river in 1877 or 1878. It was presented to the museum by Dr. C. H. Merriam of Washington. This gruesome object is one of the few specimens in this country of these rare human trophies collected and prepared by the Parentin tribe of the Tapajós river in Para, Brazil. It is a relic of another tribesman who was killed and his head preserved by the Parentins.

Dr. Merriam says that about forty years ago while he was in New York city Ernest T. Morris, a young South American explorer, came to him with this head and several others, which he desired to dispose of as soon as possible, being badly in need of funds. In relating his experiences Mr. Morris stated that while he was traveling near the headwaters of the Tapajós river he was captured by the Indians and kept prisoner for several years.

In attempting to make their captive into an Indian like themselves they tattooed his cheeks and lower jaw with native pigments, which he found he could not remove. For a long time he was in fear for his life, as they threatened to kill him for his head, so to speak, which they would have hung from the lodgepoles as a trophy. But for some reason he was spared.

After two or three years of imprisonment his captors became a little lax in their watch, and one night Morris managed to escape in a small boat. He took eight of the trophy heads with him, knowing that they would be valuable objects to museums of this country. By traveling only in the night and hiding in the day he succeeded in descending the Tapajós river and reaching the Amazon and finally the city of Para, where he secured passage to New York.

Arriving in that great metropolis, he found himself stranded financially, with nothing but his ghastly heads as assets and at the same time much embarrassed by the very noticeable tattooing with which his Indian captors had decorated his face. Unfortunately he could not raise a beard, and he would not appear in public as he was. Finding that Dr. Merriam was in the city and knowing him to be a scientist, he decided to approach him in an endeavor to raise some money on the heads. Dr. Merriam says that they found no difficulty in doing so, the American Museum of Natural History taking two and himself one. He does not remember where the others went, but recalls that all of them were sold at $75 each, netting the explorer about $600.

With the receipt of the money Morris' spirits rose again; but, having no place where he could seek seclusion from the public eye, he immediately embarked on another trip to South America and, as far as Dr. Merriam knows, has never been heard from since.

"One moment," Langdon swung about to the court clerk. "Read out the testimony of Kate O'Neill beginning with the question, 'Did he seem to be watching for someone?'"

"Question: Did he seem to be watching for someone? Answer: 'Yes, sir. He was staring up at the Hotel Republic, and I thought he was watching a man who was on the fire escape. Then I decided it wasn't a man that I saw but just a shadow, and suddenly a young lady all dressed up in—'"

"That will do, thank you," interrupted Langdon. "Now, Mr. Gallagher, if that was a man whom Miss O'Neill saw on the fire-escape, would you have seen him come down?"

"No, sor. I wasn't lookin' at the hotel."

"But that is the one place he could have come from when he joined you, isn't it?"

"No, sor. There's a servants' entrance to the hotel, just under the fire escape. He might have been someone from the hotel."

"Did he look like a waiter? What sort of a suit did he have on?"

"A check one, sor, and a red tie."

"Did you see anyone else while you were standing there?"

"Yes, sor. Me and Katie saw some people put their heads out of a windy in the hotel, then presently a policeman starts down the fire escape and Katie says, 'Let's get in the kitchen; I don't want to be mixed up in this.' And I says, 'Me neither. Besides, a sup of hot coffee will set me up after the excitement; so we went in.'"

"That is all, thank you, Mr. Gallagher. But now the Prosecutor was on his feet.

"Mr. Gallagher," he said sharply, "having seen all this, didn't you realize that you should have testified to it before the police?"

"I didn't connect it with the murder of this man Pollock," said Gallagher in some indignation. "And I took it for granted the police had got all the evidence they wanted on Barker's place."

"And may one ask," said the prosecutor with honied sweetness, "just what influence was brought to bear to make you tell this story today?"

"Well, you see," said Gallagher, scenting no sarcasm or coercion, "it was like this. When the police came to the house Katie gets mad at their questions and she says she was abed and asleep. Then a few days ago along comes a young fellow selling a thing to lift the covers off of billiard pots. He came to the back gate and he talks to Katie, till she says she don't be wantin' one, because she's leavin' of a Saturday to get married. Then he kids her a bit about he bets she's marryin' a policeman, so she tells him who I am. Then he gets talkin' about this affair, and he has the night's doin's so mixed up Katie she corrects him. He bets her a hat she's wrong; she says she kin prove it all by me. And so she does; but then another young fellow comes around and says as how we can help a young lady and clear up a lot of trouble if we tell it in court. And begorra, Kate got her hat at that!"

A shout of laughter rang through the court, and the Prosecutor sat down, far more discomfited than he would admit. It was such a simple subterfuge. The back gate peddler with his packet of gossip—and the police of course blundering in and bullying. His respect for Langdon not only as a man but as a lawyer was growing, and in the back of his mind there hovered a black phantom—the mysterious man in the checked suit who had been in the alley. Had Langdon this man up his sleeve? He frowned and shifted the papers on his desk uneasily, then looked up with a start of surprise as the door of the witness-room opened to admit the flamboyantly gowned woman, with the hard and tired eyes.

She gave her name as Agnes Keenan, but when the question came as to her occupation, she stared straight ahead of her with a sort of grim humor, then shrugged her thin shoulders.

"None," she said with the imitation of an English accent. "I live on my income."

The crowd grinned, but Langdon flushed, and his voice was a little hard as he said quietly:

"I am sorry, Miss Keenan, to have to ask you such a question, but were you not an occupant of a cell in the Fifth Street police station on the night of the raid of Barker's gambling rooms?"

"I was." Her tone was more quiet now. "I had failed to come across, and having had a drop too much I sassed the sergeant, and he locked me up to 'cool off.'"

"Had you a cell to yourself?"

"Well, at first I thought it was a private room, but a little later they shoved a girl in."

"Was that girl the defendant—Mary Page?"

"It was. But she looked some different then. She was all dolled up in an evening gown, and hadn't even a cloak. I wondered what was up and tried to make her talk, but she seemed loney. I thought it was the d. t.'s at first, but when I found out she was plain batty. I got scared and called the guard. But he only cussed me out, so I got hold of her hands and tried to make her stop crying in that queer fashion. After a bit she began to talk. It was incoherent at first, about James, and the big house, and she wasn't Sadie or Maggie. Then she seemed to come to herself and asked who I was and where she was."

"And that girl was Mary Page?"

Up to this time, "Annie" has not been on sale to the public, but by the persuasion of many patients and the increased demand for this wonderful healing Tablet, Dr. Pierce has finally decided to put it into the drug stores of this country within immediate reach of all sufferers.

I know of one or two leading druggists in town who have managed to procure a supply of "Annie" for their anxious customers in and around this locality. If not obtainable send one dime by mail to Dr. Pierce for trial package or 50 cents for full treatment.

Misery in Back, Headache and Pain in Limbs.

Dear Mr. Editor—For more than a year I suffered with misery in the back, dull headache, pain in the limbs, was somewhat constipated and slept poorly at night until I was about ready to collapse. Seeing an account of the wonderful qualities of "Annie," prepared by Doctor Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., I sent for a box, and before using the whole box I felt and still feel improved. My sleep is refreshing, misery reduced, and life is not the drag it was before. I most cheerfully recommend this remedy to sufferers from like ailments.

Yours truly, W. A. ROBERTS.

NOTE: You've all undoubtedly heard of the famous Dr. Pierce and his well-known medicines. Well, this prescription is one that has been successfully used for many years by the physicians and specialists of Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for kidney complaints, and diseases arising from disorders of the kidneys and bladder, such as backache, weak back, rheumatism, dropsy, congestion of the kidneys, inflammation of the bladder, scalding urine, and urinary troubles.

Up to this time, "Annie" has not been on sale to the public, but by the persuasion of many patients and the increased demand for this wonderful healing Tablet, Dr. Pierce has finally decided to put it into the drug stores of this country within immediate reach of all sufferers.

I know of one or two leading druggists in town who have managed to procure a supply of "Annie" for their anxious customers in and around this locality. If not obtainable send one dime by mail to Dr. Pierce for trial package or 50 cents for full treatment.

TAIL OF THE KING CRAB.

It's a Real Life Preserver When the Animal Turns Turtle.

The king crab uses his tail for a life preserver. Probably you can't imagine what a sea animal wants of a life preserver. If you watch this creature long enough, either along the beach or in an aquarium, you'll find out. He's got a shell on his back and a long, spiny tail that looks as if it could be used as a weapon of defense.

Sometimes the king crab gets turned over on his back. His feet are all curled up in the shell, so he can't touch anything with them, therefore when he's on his back he's helpless.

This is where the long tail comes in as a life preserver. The king crab sticks the point of his tail in the sand and lifts himself until he makes an arch with his body. Then he swings sideways, back and forth, until with one final effort he tops himself over right side up at last.

Along the Jersey coast they reckon the beginning of summer by the king crabs. About the time of the full moon in June, they say, the king crabs come up on the sand to lay their eggs. Men and boys go down on the beach with wagons and shovels and scoop up the crabs by the bushel. Then they feed them to the country.

It is interesting to know, too, that the Indians used to point their arrows with the sharp, spiny tail of the king crab. They used the shell for a ladle. The French have given a name to the crab—casseroles—because the shell looks like a saucepan.—Philadelphia North American.

CURIOUS MARRIAGE CUSTOM.

How the Dusky Maidens of Western Africa Win Husbands.

The natives of western Africa, and especially those on the coast, retain many quaint customs. When a girl has reached her eleventh or twelfth year she is considered quite old enough to enter into the bonds of matrimony. She is taken to the bank of the nearest river and an offering to the particular deities that she and her tribe worship is made with all due solemnity.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

On July 4th, the first series of two Evinsrud Motor Boat Races will be run at Lum Park, a silver cup going to the winner of both races.
